Eat Local This Winter!

Eating foods raised locally is easy and fun during the summer months with so many farm stands and summer CSAs to explore. But serving local foods to your family can be a real challenge during a New England winter! Until now...

Wolf Pine Farm can deliver local, organic food right to our office. Every three weeks from November through April, the Wolf Pine Farm CSA will deliver a box of local, organic foods such as storage crops (carrots, potatoes, etc.), greenhouse salad greens, dried beans, herbs, grains, fruits and frozen berries.

During the summer, the family farm, located in Alfred, Maine, grows crops for the winter shares. In the fall, they collect harvests from 20+ other New England farms to provide shareholders with an exciting mix of foods throughout the winter season. Frozen blueberries, Maine sea salt, and raw honey were some of last season's favorite local treats!

To participate in the Wolf Pine Farm CSA ("Community Supported Agriculture"), each family will purchase a "share" at the start of the delivery season. A winter share consists of eight boxes of winter foods distributed once every three weeks over 24 weeks. If at least five <INSERT COMPANY NAME> employees sign up, the food will be delivered right to our office for shareholders to bring home with them at the end of the work day. For less than $100/month, you can eat local, organic food all winter long!
